Southeastern Med: Brick Church Road Facility

“Clients love the waiting room’s inviting, comfortable atmosphere. It is a very nice, clean design and it fits its surroundings very well. Everybody that goes there likes the facility.”

Lynn Weekley, Vice President

Comfortable, centrally located waiting room

Inviting and functional therapy pool

Nestled against a wooded backdrop just outside of Cambridge, Ohio, the Brick Church Road Facility is a one story, 22,000 S.F. outpatient healthcare facility. Davis Architectural Group provided site planning, designed the building’s interior and exterior, and diligently worked with the contractor to make sure no detail was overlooked. By providing several aspects of healthcare in one convenient location, this facility increases efficiency for nearby hospital staff as well as patients.

The design of the building smartly connects four distinct departments; Work Pro, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy and Sports Medicine, with a common lobby, waiting room and state of the art training room which is available to be used by the public.

This branch of the Southeastern Ohio Regional Medical Center serves a variety of area needs by integrating access for large truck parking to serve their industrial client’s needs as well as a work simulation program and warm water therapy pool.

A track record of excellent performance on previous projects made Davis Architectural Group the designer of choice for Southeastern Med. According to Lynn Weekley, who worked closely during the planning stages, “They are very good at paying attention to details. The building design incorporates numerous architectural details that are both aesthetically pleasing and functional. It will serve the community’s needs very well for years to come.”
